

Thank you for the opportunity to ask the people who should be making the decisions on such a topic. That being us, NOT THE GOVERNMENT. Please continue to do so. Stay out of determining if there's too much violence and let those that are responsible do it. THAT BEING THE PARENTS!

Stop meddling in family affairs and let parents determine what is best for their children. Television, movies, video games, etc. mirror life - if you're concerned with what is on tv or in the movies then allocate more resources towards improving society. Offering more promise to those in need will reduce the amount of violence we experience in our neighborhoods and that which is reflected on tv.

We not only elect you to regulate, but more importantly to LEAD. Think out of the box. Stop implementing old strategies that no longer work.

Recommend to our legislators to raise the minimum wage, create more jobs, dedicate to providing all Americans a life of respect, decency, and hope. Only then will you reduce the degree violence in our society and truly define America as it should be.

Jeff Ayers